Medical Laboratory Science Letter of Intent

Applicant Name: _____ ID Number: _____

Complete both Part A and B.

Submit this form and your letter to medlabsc@ualberta.ca with your last name, student ID number and "Letter of Intent" in the subject line.

Note: you must use your UAlberta email address.

A. Letter

This letter must be written by you and must adhere to the following: maximum 3 pages, size 12 Times new Roman font, double spaced, one inch margins.

Failure to follow these directions may result in withdrawal of your application from consideration.

1. Why do you want to be a MLT? What makes you suited to the profession? What are your career goals?
2. Explain what you believe the role of a medical laboratory technologist (MLT) is within the health care system. How did you come to this understanding?
3. Based on what you know about the profession of medical laboratory technology, what do you think might be the biggest challenges that an MLT has to deal with on a day-to-day basis?

Letter is attached.

July 1, 2014

Dear Ms. Olson,

I wanted to personally inform you that I will be resigning from my volunteer position at ABC Community Services. I have recently been presented with a job offer that will help me reach my career goals and I have decided to accept it. The hours of the job would conflict with my volunteering at ABC Community Services, necessitating my resignation. My last day at ABC Community Services will be July 15, 2014, so this letter must serve as my two weeks' notice.

I may be available on some evenings and weekends throughout the rest of the year and would be delighted to continue volunteering occasionally if I can be notified a few days in advance. My telephone number is (503)555-5555 and my email address is jemail. I hope I can look forward to hearing from you and getting a few hours in occasionally.

I apologize for any inconvenience my resignation may cause to you or ABC Community Services and hope that in my last two weeks I can do whatever is needed to make the transition a smooth one. I am grateful for the wonderful experience I have had volunteering at ABC Community Services and appreciate everything I have learned. Thank you for your understanding.

Yours sincerely,

Bethany Porter

Houston, TX 77079 Dear Mrs. Aside from your maternity leave, you may also be allowed to take advantage of sick, personal, and vacation leave letter days when necessary. Tips for Writing Your Letter of Request While you're probably more excited about the idea that you get to be away from work and enjoy time with your newborn baby as well as a new scenery for 12 weeks at least, don't let your employer in on that. But then again, maybe not. Plano, TX 75025 Phone number: +14844456179 Email: lindsey.l@gmail.com April 4, 2021 To: Melissa Jones Head of the Marketing Department A&B Company 11 Shadow Brook Ave. What you can do is negotiate-because you can negotiate the type of maternity leave that can work for you, and there'll be a few things to consider. Ask for the Longest Leave Possible Okay, so you may have won the best baby award when you've got one who likes to sleep through the night and not take hours at a time of your sleep, from day one. I intend to commence maternity leave on April 25, excluding any unfessness issues regarding my pregnancy and delivery. My coming back to work is expected to be on July 25. Giving birth hurts, yes. If there is a need to be contacted for any reason, my email and phone number are placed at the top of this letter. I have been working at A&B Company for three years and look forward to continuing my career here. Download this sample maternity leave application now! This letter supports you if you need to formally inform your boss or HR that you are being pregnant and wish to take maternity leave. A good sample letter like this one is perfect when you want to make the perfect one! This will save you time and efforts and help you to apply for the leave in an easy way! It is drafted by professionals, intelligently structured and easy-to-navigate through. Therefore, I request paternity leave from [start date] to [end date]. Whether you're a teacher, student, or principal, we feature samples suitable for any employee. I will do my best to make up for any important meeting upon my return. It especially concerns future fathers as they typically have less leave time when compared to mothers. Furthermore, your company might have different procedures for traditional childbirth, surrogacy, and adoption. Step 5 - Main body (second paragraph) It is crucial to convey in a letter of intent that the employee took care of their tasks by delegating them to their colleague, if possible. You'll have a woman crying at her desk in worst cases, and who would blame her? In this case, you'll do with four to six weeks' leave and nothing more. The law allows you to notify your employer about your pregnancy no later than 15 weeks before you are due. Aside from the formal letter you submit, you will also need a maternity certificate from your doctor (MAT B1) for confirmation that you're pregnant, including your due date. Considering that we do not have parental support at the current moment, I would like to stay with her until the due date, and for the next few weeks after delivery. Herewith, I attached the document confirming my pregnancy. The letter might state: "I have approached [name of the colleague] to take care of my most important tasks, and [he or she] agreed to take over my duties before I come back." Step 6 - Closing In the closing of a letter of intent for maternity or paternity leave, the employee should tell that they can be contacted via email or by phone with any questions. The federal requirement is that to seek maternity or paternity leave, a worker should have worked at their company for at least a year, and the organization should have no less than 50 employees. It's not something you'd want to make obvious, because it's more important to stress that you're going to look forward to returning for duty once you're fit to come back and you've got everything settled at home with your baby. The best for a working woman to do, when she discovers she is pregnant and is given the hands up by her doctor that she's in the safe period of her pregnancy, which is usually after three months, is to hand in her letter for the maternity leave request. It should include their name and address. Determine how much time you need based on the guidelines of your company. And so, we're offering templates to help you write an official maternity leave plan application. The USA law, namely the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993, gives both fathers and mothers who qualify under federal and state codes an ability to spend up to 12 unpaid weeks off to care for a newborn or adopted baby. Barely two weeks after giving birth, you may feel in great shape. Jones, I am writing to inform you about my pregnancy and intention to take the full maternity leave of 12 weeks. I intend to make every attempt to complete all my tasks before leaving and should be able to oversee my current project (Marketing strategy for X&Y company) from home. Due to baby care, you cannot settle for anything less than being taken good care of and having enough support from everyone who can give it, while you're making preparations, especially if you have a full-time job template and when there is a solution that offers a more comfortable experience for you while you are expecting. Sincerely, Lindsey Lorene Published: May 12, 2021 How to write a Maternity leave application letter to your boss or HR department when you are (heavily) pregnant and want to take the maternity leave? Maybe you'll feel that despite having it easier than some new moms, you prefer to continue breastfeeding longer than planned. But carrying the child in your womb for a good nine months is even tougher. I intend to take 12 weeks off and provided that there are no medical complications, I would like to resume work at my current position of Middle Java Developer. Or a father-to-be might write: "My wife has been experiencing some minor complications and has been unwell for the past few days. Have a new mother locked up at her cozy home during winter, just getting the hang out of carrying a baby who naturally takes up her sleeping time and more, no support from loved ones, very few well-wishers and you can bet you'll have a woman begging on her knees to be allowed back for work in just weeks. It's highly possible, but a more common scenario is a mother forced to return for duty for mostly financial reasons, security of her position at work, and even management demands, long before she's fit to work, physically, mentally, and emotionally. In your final month, you will also find it hard to do your job at work, and you would need all the rest and preparation you can get. Decide How Much Time You Need To Take Imagine the exhaustion just weeks after being in the hospital, on top of being away from a newborn baby. If you get bored then you can even try doing some work at home, just so you don't have to adjust too much when you go to work again. It's Okay to Come Back Sooner Than Planned! Just remember that you can always volunteer to take less time after giving birth. 41+ FREE & Premium Leave Letter Templates - Download Now Adobe PDF, Microsoft Word (DOC), Google Docs, Apple (MAC) Pages. Usually, people prepare for this while they are in their early stages. An employee who notifies her boss and calls in to inform the management template that she's ready to come and work two weeks earlier than her original schedule template will gain more admiration and pride from her boss than the one who keeps asking for an added week or two on her original leave credits at the last minute. I would appreciate it if you could allow me to take time away to prepare for my baby and adjust to life as a new mother. That should be enough time to gather your strength for working again and being on course to deliver what's expected of you when you come back, as well as have time for your baby. Step 4 - Main body (first paragraph) Next, the employee should tell the approximate dates of their maternity or paternity leave. Or you may have lived breastfeeding more than you expected. Above everything else, your health and that of your unborn baby should be prioritized. He will be able to provide any details on the project during my time off. Some states also offer partially-paid maternity leaves. It should be based on the estimations of the physician, and according to the law, a worker can get 12 unpaid weeks off work from this date. Maybe you're not prepared to get back to work just yet. The truth is, there's no way to tell what your need would be and how to cover it, after delivery. It involves too many hormonal changes on top of money, the time you have to take away from work and you become very sensitive and find yourself harder to satisfy, especially when it comes to food and many other things. In my absence, I plan to delegate my current tasks to Peter, my marketing assistant, who knows well the goals and specifics of the current project. A letter of intent for maternity or paternity leave should be written carefully to convince the employer that the worker is aware of the company's policies as well as state and federal laws on time off due to maternity and paternity. The letter might say: "My physician has estimated that the baby will be expected from [approximate date of birth] and I would like to remain working until [start of the maternity leave period]. It's more than likely that the paycheck you will get from your time off will be coming by way of disability insurance which ideally provides you two weeks to prepare before your due and six after normal delivery, which can go up to eight weeks if you delivered through cesarean section. Then, the effective date of the letter should be written. As disappointing as it might be, you might be rejected from taking a leave, which is why you should offer options that might be more suitable for your employer, for instance a flexible schedule, remote work, or telecommuting. Or maybe you're having quite a challenge with finding a childcare arrangement that's good enough for the baby and works with your schedule. It could also be that you have the kind of job you love more than most people do and have a nanny or caregiver ready in case you need backup at home. Here are some tips to follow: The policy for maternity and paternity leave might be different in various organizations, which is why it would be wise to check with the guidelines or the Human Resources department of your entity first. Step 2 - Information about the employer The same information about the employer should be included in the free letter of intent template. Unfortunately, you have to decide the way ahead of your leave effective date about how much time to take. Being pregnant is not an easy phase for a woman who will soon become a mother. It mostly depends on your job and your unborn child, and it even depends on where you're from and the time of the year you're expecting the delivery. It is recommended to apply at least four weeks in advance of when you request maternity or paternity leave. Step 3 - Opening In the opening, the worker who seeks maternity or paternity leave should tell the purpose of the document. How to Fill Out a Letter of Intent for Maternity Leave Step 1 - Information about the father or mother and the effective date The letter of intent should start with the information about the mother or father-to-be in the top left corner of the document. Some companies might have unique working arrangements, others might provide only 10 days off work. The salary percentage from the paycheck you will collect would depend on what type of benefit plan your company had offered and you had selected. Usually, companies offer 12 weeks of maternity leave as the standard but if you think it's better to get up to six months, then ask for the procedures that you should follow to have it granted. A maternity leave letter of intent is sent to an employer by a worker who needs time off work to care for their newborn or adopted baby. For instance, it might say, "I am writing with the intention to inform you that I am pregnant and plan to take maternity leave." Or, if a letter of intent is for paternity leave, it might start with, "I am happy to inform you that my wife, [name of the employee's wife], and I will be parents of a new baby girl, which is why I request you to grant me paternity leave". Some companies like to take good care of their employees by having family-friendly leave policies, but many don't. The letter should end with expressing gratitude to the employer for letting take time off work to take care of the baby. This type of letter of intent for a job written by a father-to-be is referred to as a paternity leave letter. There's no way to tell how you would take post-natal situations, especially on the job, and how much time you'll need or even want. Inform your management how your absence will affect the operations you are responsible for. It is only right to come prepared with gadgets, clothes, food, OB appointments, the hospital, and all. Use a letter mockup for a school notice, office mail, extension email, and more.
